Suffolk County Community College is the SUNY community college with the largest enrollment in New York State. Over the past twenty years SCCC has been a college level academic institution providing EMT-Basic and EMT-Critical Care Original courses for the residents of Western, Central, and Eastern Suffolk County. Suffolk Community College has over 250 students completing varied EMT coursework annually. Additionally SCCC educates over 700 students a year in Advanced First Aid and Professional Rescuer CPR, many of whom function in community response positions commonly interfacing with the EMS system.

The 30 faculty members of the Emergency Medical Care Program come from a wide range of EMS and Healthcare professionals bringing many years of expertise and experience to the students, patients, community, and system they serve.
